

JOB DESCRIPTION

Position Title: Senior Director, Federal Government Affairs

Department: Government Affairs

Report To: Vice President, Federal Government Affairs

FLSA: Exempt

Last Revision Date: 2021 06 07

Job Summary: The Senior Director, Federal Government Affairs (GA) will be responsible for managing a range of government relations initiatives and projects to promote the federal policy goals and objectives of the Association for Accessible Medicines (AAM). The Senior Director will work closely with GA staff and across the organization to develop the association's strategy and implement the initiatives of AAM's government affairs department.

Essential Duties and Responsibilities:

- Lobby Congress on behalf of AAM on a range of federal policy issues impacting generic and biosimilar manufacturers, and patient access to generic and biosimilar medicines.
- Collaborate across the association and with AAM's member companies to develop federal policy goals, strategic plans, and legislative strategy.
- Develop, maintain, and expand relationships and communications with congressional staff on key committees and with congressional offices as coordinated across the department.
- Ensure AAM is known as a thought and policy leader on issues impacting the generic and biosimilar industry and identify risks and opportunities for the association.
- Monitor, analyze, and respond to current and potential legislation and congressional action related to the generic and biosimilar industry.
- Work with AAM, its member companies and congressional staff to organize Capitol Hill policy briefings, Hill days and AAM Board meetings.
- Promote and further AAM and the industry's interests at political and governmental events and meetings.
- Cover congressional hearings and markups on issues that affect the generic and biosimilar industry.
- Serve on internal AAM working groups to provide updates to member companies.
- Represent AAM in stakeholder coalitions and with allies as assigned.
- Perform other duties as assigned consistent with the goals of AAM.
